

ARIZONA JOURNAL-MINER

DAILY AND WEEKLY.

J. C. MARTIN, Editor and Proprietor

OFFICIAL PAPER YAVAPAI COUNTY.

Entered in the Postoffice at Prescott, Arizona, as Second-Class Matter.

THE DAILY JOURNAL-MINER is published every day in the year except Sundays and Legal Holidays.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL-MINER is published every Wednesday at Prescott, Arizona, as Second-Class Matter.

ADVERTISING RATES: Made known on application to this office or to any duly accredited agent.

THE EASTERN OFFICES OF this paper are at 241 Temple Court, New York City, and at 100 Broadway, New York City.

THE WEEKLY JOURNAL-MINER and the DAILY JOURNAL-MINER are published by J. C. Martin, Editor and Proprietor, at Prescott, Arizona.

TERMS: Daily, per year in advance, $10.00; per month, $1.00; per week, $0.25; per day, $0.10. Single copies, 5 cents.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS: The Journal-Miner has made arrangements to ship with the following papers at prices named: payment to be made in advance.

IT BEGINS TO HURT.

The policy of New Jersey, in turning out hordes of loose jointed corporations with unlimited powers to prey upon the public, is beginning to make its pernicious effects felt at home, for we notice that a bill was introduced in the legislature of that state providing that corporations hereafter chartered there shall at least once every year make public a balance sheet which shall show, among other things, the amount of capital stock issued, and the amount paid up, "distinguishing the amount of capital paid up in money and the amount paid up otherwise than in money, and the amount (if any) of calls due." Other statements as to debts, surplus, etc., are also required. The bill will probably not become a law, because the fees which New Jersey receives for these letters of marque and reprisal which she issues to commercial privateers constitute a fund sufficient to pay the running expenses of the state, and that is a consideration not to be disregarded, but the introduction of such a bill in the legislature shows that even in New Jersey there is some dissatisfaction with a policy which turns loose upon the country a lot of blind fools, to plunder the people of that state along with the rest.—Ex.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Journal-Miner entered its 30th year yesterday, March 9th, the Arizona Miner being established March 9, 1864.

President Roosevelt has announced to a committee of citizens of Charleston his intention of visiting the exposition in that city.

Eastern capitalists have under consideration the question of establishing a glove factory in Socorro, New Mexico.

The ministers of Albuquerque have inaugurated a determined campaign against the open Sunday saloon. In every Protestant church in the city sermons were preached last Sunday in favor of the enforcement of the Sunday closing law.

The exposition authorities have been informed that King Menelik, of Abyssinia, if properly invited, will probably visit the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. It is expected that Walter Williams, of the Columbia (Mo.) Herald, who is now in Abyssinia, will be commissioned to carry the invitation.

A New York telegram says that Wall Street is displeased with President Roosevelt's action in ordering that action be taken by the government against the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific into the Northern Securities company. While Wall Street is an important factor in this country, it is not the whole push, and the public has some rights as well as the money bags of the country.

Wall Street's business has divided down to hard times volume, but retains its good times firmness. The failure of the great floods, the shipwrecks of gold, the crops of gold, the crop stories and other unfavorable news to produce any bad effect on the market.

The guests are gone the smile slips from the face of the hostess and she gives up to the pain which racks her body. Many a woman enters daily and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain. Surely any medicine which offers relief and wears a smile while her back aches and her nerves quiver with pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It cures enfeebling drains, inflames inflammation and cures female weakness.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the best of my mind has been freed from your Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery." Says Miss Carrie Johnson, of Lowell, Mass., who writes: "I was afflicted with a chronic nervous and rheumatic pain in my back and hips, and had a constant running and running pain in my head, after taking the bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, the pain was removed."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the liver.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs of Georgia is also mentioned for the chairmanship. Most of the democrats think he will get it.

An exchange says that "the trust magnates are taking a great deal of interest in the newspaper business. John W. Gates the steel magnate, is said to have furnished the capital with which George W. Hanna purchased the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Senator W. A. Clark owns six of the leading newspapers of Montana. James J. Hill, the most prominent railroad figure in the central west, is the proprietor of the St. Paul Globe and owns a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, and holds a $300,000 mortgage on the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. It is said that he also owns a controlling interest in the majority of the papers along the line of his railroad." Trust magnates out in this neck of the woods have a different idea of the control of newspapers. Their idea of such control is to accomplish it by their personal magnetism. That the people who have invested in such enterprises are being amply compensated for boosting any scheme they have on hand by an occasional descending smile, and if a sap in the way of a dollar or two of advertising for their patronage happens to be given the newspaper owner he is under obligation for his natural life time for the generous act.

A Sudden Death.

The Albuquerque Citizen of March 6 contains the announcement of the death of Walter S. Parkhurst, a general manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company for Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas. Although Mr. Parkhurst had been in ill health for years, coming to the south western field and locating in Albuquerque on account of poor health, his death came such a sudden and unexpected, as he was able to attend to his work within a few hours of his death and had planned to return to his home in Albuquerque, March 7.

A. J. Wierman, agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company, received a letter from him yesterday and notification was given in it of his condition being any worse.

Mr. Parkhurst was a noble man and a man of great energy, and was devoted to his business. He was formerly connected with the home office of the company in New York and came west on account of failing health. During his residence in Albuquerque he visited Prescott and other Arizona towns and met and made many warm friends, who will experience deep sorrow over his death.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs of Georgia is also mentioned for the chairmanship. Most of the democrats think he will get it.

An exchange says that "the trust magnates are taking a great deal of interest in the newspaper business. John W. Gates the steel magnate, is said to have furnished the capital with which George W. Hanna purchased the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Senator W. A. Clark owns six of the leading newspapers of Montana. James J. Hill, the most prominent railroad figure in the central west, is the proprietor of the St. Paul Globe and owns a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, and holds a $300,000 mortgage on the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. It is said that he also owns a controlling interest in the majority of the papers along the line of his railroad." Trust magnates out in this neck of the woods have a different idea of the control of newspapers. Their idea of such control is to accomplish it by their personal magnetism. That the people who have invested in such enterprises are being amply compensated for boosting any scheme they have on hand by an occasional descending smile, and if a sap in the way of a dollar or two of advertising for their patronage happens to be given the newspaper owner he is under obligation for his natural life time for the generous act.

A Sudden Death.

The Albuquerque Citizen of March 6 contains the announcement of the death of Walter S. Parkhurst, a general manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company for Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas. Although Mr. Parkhurst had been in ill health for years, coming to the south western field and locating in Albuquerque on account of poor health, his death came such a sudden and unexpected, as he was able to attend to his work within a few hours of his death and had planned to return to his home in Albuquerque, March 7.

A. J. Wierman, agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company, received a letter from him yesterday and notification was given in it of his condition being any worse.

Mr. Parkhurst was a noble man and a man of great energy, and was devoted to his business. He was formerly connected with the home office of the company in New York and came west on account of failing health. During his residence in Albuquerque he visited Prescott and other Arizona towns and met and made many warm friends, who will experience deep sorrow over his death.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs of Georgia is also mentioned for the chairmanship. Most of the democrats think he will get it.

An exchange says that "the trust magnates are taking a great deal of interest in the newspaper business. John W. Gates the steel magnate, is said to have furnished the capital with which George W. Hanna purchased the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Senator W. A. Clark owns six of the leading newspapers of Montana. James J. Hill, the most prominent railroad figure in the central west, is the proprietor of the St. Paul Globe and owns a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, and holds a $300,000 mortgage on the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. It is said that he also owns a controlling interest in the majority of the papers along the line of his railroad." Trust magnates out in this neck of the woods have a different idea of the control of newspapers. Their idea of such control is to accomplish it by their personal magnetism. That the people who have invested in such enterprises are being amply compensated for boosting any scheme they have on hand by an occasional descending smile, and if a sap in the way of a dollar or two of advertising for their patronage happens to be given the newspaper owner he is under obligation for his natural life time for the generous act.

A Sudden Death.

The Albuquerque Citizen of March 6 contains the announcement of the death of Walter S. Parkhurst, a general manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company for Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas. Although Mr. Parkhurst had been in ill health for years, coming to the south western field and locating in Albuquerque on account of poor health, his death came such a sudden and unexpected, as he was able to attend to his work within a few hours of his death and had planned to return to his home in Albuquerque, March 7.

A. J. Wierman, agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company, received a letter from him yesterday and notification was given in it of his condition being any worse.

Mr. Parkhurst was a noble man and a man of great energy, and was devoted to his business. He was formerly connected with the home office of the company in New York and came west on account of failing health. During his residence in Albuquerque he visited Prescott and other Arizona towns and met and made many warm friends, who will experience deep sorrow over his death.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs of Georgia is also mentioned for the chairmanship. Most of the democrats think he will get it.

An exchange says that "the trust magnates are taking a great deal of interest in the newspaper business. John W. Gates the steel magnate, is said to have furnished the capital with which George W. Hanna purchased the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Senator W. A. Clark owns six of the leading newspapers of Montana. James J. Hill, the most prominent railroad figure in the central west, is the proprietor of the St. Paul Globe and owns a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, and holds a $300,000 mortgage on the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. It is said that he also owns a controlling interest in the majority of the papers along the line of his railroad." Trust magnates out in this neck of the woods have a different idea of the control of newspapers. Their idea of such control is to accomplish it by their personal magnetism. That the people who have invested in such enterprises are being amply compensated for boosting any scheme they have on hand by an occasional descending smile, and if a sap in the way of a dollar or two of advertising for their patronage happens to be given the newspaper owner he is under obligation for his natural life time for the generous act.

A Sudden Death.

The Albuquerque Citizen of March 6 contains the announcement of the death of Walter S. Parkhurst, a general manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company for Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas. Although Mr. Parkhurst had been in ill health for years, coming to the south western field and locating in Albuquerque on account of poor health, his death came such a sudden and unexpected, as he was able to attend to his work within a few hours of his death and had planned to return to his home in Albuquerque, March 7.

A. J. Wierman, agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company, received a letter from him yesterday and notification was given in it of his condition being any worse.

Mr. Parkhurst was a noble man and a man of great energy, and was devoted to his business. He was formerly connected with the home office of the company in New York and came west on account of failing health. During his residence in Albuquerque he visited Prescott and other Arizona towns and met and made many warm friends, who will experience deep sorrow over his death.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs of Georgia is also mentioned for the chairmanship. Most of the democrats think he will get it.

An exchange says that "the trust magnates are taking a great deal of interest in the newspaper business. John W. Gates the steel magnate, is said to have furnished the capital with which George W. Hanna purchased the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Senator W. A. Clark owns six of the leading newspapers of Montana. James J. Hill, the most prominent railroad figure in the central west, is the proprietor of the St. Paul Globe and owns a controlling interest in the Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune, and holds a $300,000 mortgage on the Post-Intelligencer of Seattle. It is said that he also owns a controlling interest in the majority of the papers along the line of his railroad." Trust magnates out in this neck of the woods have a different idea of the control of newspapers. Their idea of such control is to accomplish it by their personal magnetism. That the people who have invested in such enterprises are being amply compensated for boosting any scheme they have on hand by an occasional descending smile, and if a sap in the way of a dollar or two of advertising for their patronage happens to be given the newspaper owner he is under obligation for his natural life time for the generous act.

A Sudden Death.

The Albuquerque Citizen of March 6 contains the announcement of the death of Walter S. Parkhurst, a general manager of the Equitable Life Insurance company for Arizona, New Mexico and western Texas. Although Mr. Parkhurst had been in ill health for years, coming to the south western field and locating in Albuquerque on account of poor health, his death came such a sudden and unexpected, as he was able to attend to his work within a few hours of his death and had planned to return to his home in Albuquerque, March 7.

A. J. Wierman, agent of the Equitable Life Insurance company, received a letter from him yesterday and notification was given in it of his condition being any worse.

Mr. Parkhurst was a noble man and a man of great energy, and was devoted to his business. He was formerly connected with the home office of the company in New York and came west on account of failing health. During his residence in Albuquerque he visited Prescott and other Arizona towns and met and made many warm friends, who will experience deep sorrow over his death.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat, and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however, you'll pay for it.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work—you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

The genuine has this picture on it, and if you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

Music as a medicinal agent has been urged on many occasions but there is a well authenticated report from East St. Louis of a violent smallpox patient who was effectually soothed by the strains of a violin when all other methods of calming him had failed.

"Sending coals to Newcastle" is a thing that the United States does every day. Only that we are sending in plates to Wales, cottons to Birmingham and Leeds, and California fruit is making such a head way in Spain that they take our grapes at Malaga, and eat California oranges in Valencia.

A western member of congress received word from his cadet appointee at Annapolis that the academy authorities were starving him. Always eager to right such wrongs, particularly after the recent exposure at West Point, the congressman made an investigation in hot haste and found that his protégé was sleek and well-fed and had gained twenty pounds since he entered the academy in the fall.

The oleomargarine bill afforded the house of representatives more amusement than it has had for a long time. One member solemnly declared that all white horses should not be taxed while all colored horses should be.

Another wanted a bill to prohibit the sale of live sows in 1-pound and 5-pound packages. The sale of adulterated candy and imitation sardines was attacked by another member, and some went so far as to suggest the suppression of artificial eyes which were a fraud on the real article.

A Washington telegram of recent date says: Friends of Senator William A. Clark of Montana, the copper king, think he stands a chance to get the nomination for president on the democratic ticket in 1904. Senator Clark's name has been mentioned for the chairmanship of the democratic congressional campaign committee. The idea in this is to make him prominent politically before the country. The senator's immense fortune would make him a very desirable chairman. Representative Griggs